Dr. J. N. Dimon of New London on Trial in Superior Court—Main and Lynch Sent to Prison—Separate Trial for Jurass.

The trial of Dr. John N. Dimon of New London on the charge of criminal negligence, and thereby causing the death of Mrs. Joseph Buivet, of Waterford, last March, is underway in the superior court here. He attended her at childbirth, instruments being used, and because of neglect it is charged she died, the child being stillborn. The case is a continued one, and was taken up from the previous trial, the jury having been selected at the morning session. Sheriff Draper being obliged to secure four challenges by Attorney Geary for the defense.

The first witness called in the case was Mrs. Buivet, sister of Dr. Dimon. She was called as interpreter, and while in the performance of his duties the court room was filled with excitement over loud snoring. It was found to be the interpreter's faithful dog, who had gotten into the court room and gone to sleep at his master's feet. The doctor was obliged to take the dog out.

Mrs. Buivet testified she was 32, and was married to Dr. Dimon when 11 o'clock at night when the accouchment was about to take place. Several women and her husband were there, and she said she could not remember the name of the doctor. Mr. Buivet tried to get Dr. Dimon, but could not, and did get Dr. Dimon. She described the work of the doctor and the way he left Mrs. Buivet. She said it was a terrible scene. Under cross-examination, she said she was holding a lamp, but was not looking at it, and with her back turned, and did not see all the doctor did. Dr. Dimon was not allowed to come in the next day, and Dr. Dimon was called in the next day.

Dr. Dimon acted funny when at the house.

Daughter and Husband Testify.

Rev. Thomas H. Tiernan of St. Mary's church, New London, recalled being called to the home of Magdalene B. Buivet on the last day of February, 1908, and arrived there at 3:30 a. m.

He performed the last rites of the deceased, and then he saw Dr. Dimon. The woman was in great agony from childbirth. He was called about 2:55 a. m., and found the woman upstairs in the front room.

Catherine Buivet, aged 17, step-daughter of Mrs. Joseph Buivet, testified that she saw Dr. Dimon when he first came to the house on the night in question. He was talking and jolly, and she saw him go down stairs. Two children awoke, and he said wherever he went children were always awake. He acted funny. She saw him when he left the house.

On cross-examination she said she knew her mother's condition before she died, but didn't know she intended to do without the services of a doctor.

Joseph Buivet, husband of Magdalene B. Buivet, testified that there were six children of Dr. Dimon, and that he said he sent for his sister Felicia and told of those who were there.

Dr. Dimon came and examined Mrs. Buivet.

But, took out the instruments, warned them, and when he asked why they had handed them to him and went downstairs until the operation was over. When Mrs. Buivet was very sick Father Tiernan and Dr. Dimon came later. Dr. Dimon came Sunday morning, but he was not allowed to see Mrs. Buivet. She lived five days, being very sick. She had not been sick up to the time in which he died. He died at 11 o'clock.

On cross-examination he said Julia Rodmansky is not a midwife and was to stay with his wife until the doctor came.

What Autopsy Showed.

Dr. H. M. Lee of New London, a physician and surgeon for ten years, testified that he performed the autopsy on Mrs. Buivet's body.

He found it in apparently good physical condition. The autopsy revealed no morbid or diseased condition of the organs, but the bladder showed two lacerations, one opposite the other and passing through the entire thickness.

Two of the organs were badly torn, and there was another laceration in the uterus, all three of which could have been made by forceps. The lacerations were not deep, and the degree of force must have been used during the operation, which should never be done in the use of instruments.

Dr. Lee had not finished his direct examination when court was adjourned at 5 o'clock until this morning at ten.

Lynch Given One to Two Years.

When the superior court opened on Wednesday morning State's Attorney Hall completed his direct examination of the case against Daniel Lynch, and Judge Wheeler charged the jury. They retired and soon returned with a verdict of guilty.

He was given not less than two years in state prison.

Main Is Sentenced.

The sentencing of George E. Main then came up, and Attorney Hall and Barnes argued a motion to have the verdict set aside, which Judge Wheeler denied. He was given not less than two years in state prison.

The motion of Attorney Freeman for a new trial was denied.

STATE GRANGERS FAVOR DIRECT PRIMARY.

At Wednesday's session of the Connecticut State grange a resolution favoring the direct primary was introduced by Deputy Goodenough of Winchester, which was referred to the committee on state legislation.

The committee on state legislation, which was appointed two years ago, gave statistics of the destruction of crops caused by the locusts of birds which prey upon insects.

The grange was advocated together with the appointment of a competent man to travel about the state, and to draw the people in the care and preservation of birds.

A resolution favoring work in the interest of a parcel post system was referred to a committee.

The committee on good of the order, E. P. Barnes of Norwich, made a report on various matters concerning the welfare of the order.

The report contained several resolutions which were considered separately. One recommending that the state grange favor the direct primary was adopted; another was a disapproval of the free distribution of seeds.

Both were adopted.

The session in the afternoon began at 2 o'clock and was devoted to a lectureship conference. State Lecturer Joseph H. Putnam of Litchfield, Conn., was in the chair.

There was a large attendance of the delegates and the electors-elect of the subordinate granges. Many of the delegates and other patrons attended.

BOUND OVER TO THE SUPERIOR COURT.

Joseph Stone Held Under $700 Bonds—Likely to Be Brought Before Present Session on Bench Warrant.

In the city court on Wednesday morning the case against Joseph Stone of Central Village was brought up, he being charged with rape upon Annie Pulver and Lizzie Donovan.

The girl testified that she was raped, and the case was found to be a case for the superior court under $700 bonds.

It is possible that he will be presented before the superior court now in session this morning on a bench warrant, as he has a wife and children but does not live with his family.

The case against Edie Smith, charged with keeping a disorderly house, was continued until the next session.

UNION DRAMATIC CLUB SCORES BIG HIT.

The Man From Montana Well Presented at Spiritual Academy.

At the Spiritual academy on Park street on Wednesday evening, the Union Dramatic club presented the strongest hits in the series of plays they have given by presenting "The Man From Montana" before an audience of good dramatic quality.

The play covers three scenes, the first two in Senator Withrow's drawing room and the last in the living room of the Montana mining camp, five months later. The capable cast was the following:

Watson W. Higbee, from Montana, who knows neither French nor grammar, Raymond Lindsay.

Hon. V. D. Withrow, with a tall family tree, and a short bank account, Madge, Eugene J. Carroll.

Theodore Dalrymple called Ted, a love with Nancy, Frank E. R. Leete, Higgins, the butler, Arthur Dobbrow, Nancy Withrow, who declines to be sold, Hadie Blackstone.

Madie, a cunning, but with a temper when needed, Esther H. Blinn, Mrs. Ballou, the senator's sister.

Malvina, originally from Missouri, even talks in her sleep, Emma Carroll.

In the title role Mr. Blinn as every requirement demanded of him and was ably seconded by Mr. Blinn as the other of two fathers who find it difficult to regulate the affections of their children.

Meers, Carroll and Blinn, with Miss Blackstone and Mrs. Blinn, made a very effective scene when Cupid leads contrary to the parents' plans. There is plenty of good nature and humor in the honors of Mrs. Carroll.

The music for the evening was arranged and played by Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Dowsett. Between the first and second acts a pretty solo, My Ruth, sung by Mr. Beatty.

The club promises to have a large house for the second presentation tonight. Home-made candy was sold by Miss Mary Clapp.
